Kansas City Star Quilts is a tradition started in 1928 - of bringing you the finest in quilting patterns and books. The American Midwest has been dubbed the heart of quilting country, and Kansas City is no exception. In 1928, The Kansas City Star newspaper began printing traditional quilt patterns that would become world famous and remain favorites for generations to come.

The patterns were a weekly feature in The Star or sister publications The Weekly Star and The Star Farmer from 1928 until the mid-1930s, then less regularly until 1961. By the time the last one ran, more than 1,000 had been published in the papers, which circulated in seven Midwestern states as well as North Carolina, Kentucky and Texas.

We thought those long lost original patterns should not be lost to the archives of yesteryear and have brought the entire vintage collection together here in one place, digitally reproduced on CD Rom.

Having the entire Kansas City Star Pattern Collection on CD Rom means you can mix and match, reproduce and print on whim. Now please keep in mind that these patterns date back some 80 years and will show the wear, tear and love of time. However, this amazing collection is still worth having for any quilter or quilt restorer for such an affordable price. Get your copy now and give one for a gift!
